Using the ECMC Learning platform, students learn strategies to effectively manage money, limit borrowing, and successfully repay student loans and consumer debt.

About Decision Partners

For more than a decade, Decision Partners has been the trusted financial education partner of hundreds of educational, nonprofit and related organizations. Financial Literacy 101 is designed to engage diverse student populations with financial education while also meeting the complex implementation, reporting and compliance requirements of student-serving institutions.

The platform offers simple implementation—without the need for ongoing IT support, student support or other campus resources. The platform has been implemented through new student orientation and first-year experience programs, enrollment management initiatives, TRIO programs, as a requirement for students receiving financial aid, as an intervention for students on academic probation, and as part of classroom courses or workshops.
